Beth Fletcher confessed that she had wronged others by saying and doing things unbecoming of a Christian. She requested our prayers for her spiritual health and God's forgiveness. Please continue to pray for Beth and Zac as they deal with her multiple health issues.

Through the years, I have had parents periodically ask me if they had a right to have a say in the friendships of their children. Every time I have been asked that question, I have had to curb the passion and enthusiasm with which I wanted to answer. However, my answer still came out as an emphatic "Yes! Absolutely! You not only have the right, but you have the responsibility to have a say in the friendships of your children!"

Our choice of friends reflects our relationship with our heavenly Father. (James 4:4)

Our choice of friends reveals much about our interests and goals. Do we want to go to heaven? Then, we need to surround ourselves with people who want to go there, too. Do we want to be a stronger Christian? Then, we need to associate with people who are spiritually mature. Don't exclude the lost from our list of friends, but make certain that we are influenced the most by those who are making plans for the next life.

By Steve Higginbotham

The righteous should choose his friends carefully, For the way of the wicked
leads them astray.
Proverbs 12:26 NKJV
